Trip Report - Isle of Sheppey 28th January 2011

As we stepped out of the car near the beach at Leysdown on Sea, the cold wind sucked out your breath and made the eyes water: nevertheless fifteen of us gathered and set off on foot for the Swale NNR.

On the Shellness beach small groups of Sanderling and Turnstone huddled together, as for once we had the good fortune to be present at high tide and as we overlooked the spit a couple of thousand Oystercatcher were roosting on the beach waiting for the tide to turn. In a magic moment they rose together and flew towards us giving the sort of fantastic image that burns itself on the retina and cheers the soul. Other waders present in smaller numbers included Grey Plover, Ringed Plover, Dunlin, Knot and a single Purple Sandpiper found by Peter Garner.

We were joined briefly by a group from the Kent Ornithological Society whose leader was the reserve warden and he pointed out a distant Merlin sat on a strategically placed tyre. As we meandered back a small flock of White Fronted Geese were seen grazing in the Leysdown Marshes.

After lunch we headed to Hartley Ferry, but paused a couple of times en-route to take in the birds in the open ground: a flock of fifty Corn Buntings sat in a small bush, Lapwing, Golden Plover and up to six Marsh Harriers. Grove Ferry was less exciting but did give the opportunity to get the book out to confirm the Godwits seen feeding on the mud were definitely Barred. Out on the estuary a single Great Crested Grebe and a Common Seal were the only sightings of note.

As we back tracked to the RSPB raptor watch point at Capel Fleet a Barn Owl was hunting low over the roadside hedge, at one point virtually flying over the bonnet of Richard's car, giving superb views for them. On arrival at the watch point the sun had come out and although the cool breeze made it less than comfortable standing for any length of time on the mound, we were rewarded with Peregrine, female Hen Harrier, Buzzard (unfortunately not Rough Legged) and a surprisingly tame juvenile Kestrel which allowed one club member to approach within feet.

The Barn Owl then entertained as it hunted in the late afternoon sun. We had missed a Short Eared Owl seen before we arrived, but as we got back in the car to leave I don't think anyone present felt the loss, on a very satisfying visit with a total of 51 species seen.

Footnote on the Sheppey Trip

Had a great time at this today – despite it being bitterly cold! Thanks to Richard for leading and for all the others attending for their usual good company and patience with my usual ignorance! I've now added Hen Harrier and Merlin to my life list (no I've never seen them before – no Peregrines seen today but I've seen lots of them at the usual urban sites; we saw Marsh Harriers but I'd already ticked them courtesy of a weekend at the Wash Study Centre).

The best bird for me was a beautiful Barn Owl. There was however a most endearing little kestrel that kept hanging around the raptor watch point. I thought you might like this shot of it that I got. I didn't take many more photos because my hands were just too darn cold.

Sue Hetherington

Editor's note: Sue's Kestrel picture was from so close, I couldn't manage to edit it small enough to get it in without losing some of the detail - apologies. Anyway, seeing new birds is what Field Trips are all about!

Welcome to new members of the club:

Mr Paul Slack from Aylesbury
Mr Julian Petley from Uxbridge
Mr Stephen Richards of Wendover
Mr Robert Bowers of Aylesbury
Mr Nigel Green from Wolverton
Mr Peter Barnes from Simpson, Milton Keynes

The club committee is delighted that you have joined and we are certain that you will benefit from your membership of the BBC. We look forward to meeting you at either the monthly indoor meetings or at one of the frequent field meetings.

I'm pleased to see so many new members this month! And that's without the new Club publicity flyer that Dave Parmenter has just produced. If you're going along to anywhere that would be a good place to hand out or leave a few flyers, let us know and we'll see about supplying some!

CLUB NEWS - Meetings and Field Trips

Indoor Meeting for March

*THURSDAY 3rd MARCH 2011 @. Wendover Memorial Hall, Wharf Road, Wendover
Doors open 7.30 pm for 7.45 pm start.*

THROUGH BIRDS' EYES by Graham Martin

Graham will be talking to us about bird vision and bird behaviour and the search for a predictable relationship between the two. How does its food look to a Blackbird? A Professor of Ornithology at Birmingham University, Graham has published on how vision influences looking for food in many species, including Cormorants, where in fact he reached a conclusion about their underwater vision which was contrary to expectations. Come along and find out what that was!

Calendar Birds – Photographs Wanted!

Dave Ferguson has come up with the excellent idea of producing a Buckinghamshire Bird Club Calendar for 2012. We'd like to fill it with pictures of birds taken in Bucks, one for each month – with the idea that each photo, if not taken in the month in question, would at least be representative of the season. And we'd like Club members to provide the pictures.

So please get looking for/taking photos. We intend to collect them all by the end of May and have the calendar out in time to raise club funds before Christmas. Anyone sending a photo in would be agreeing to publication in the calendar. News of how/where to send photos in next Bulletin.

Trip Report - Summer Leys – Sunday 13th February

With a poor weather forecast it was no surprise that only four of us met in the car park and headed off to the first hide.

Out on the water half a dozen Goldeneye gathered together and a one of the dapper males was busy doing the head-back courtship display. (Picture left by Martin Ansley)

This spring like theme continued with a pair of Great Crested Grebes also in a bout of synchronised head wagging. Out on nearby Rotary island fifty or so Lapwing stood with a single Oystercatcher.

As we worked our way around the five well appointed hides we added to the list a small flock of Golden Plover, Curlew, Shoveller, Pochard, Teal, Widgeon and Little Grebe amongst others. A flying wader was seen by John Barnes and as it disappeared in the distance we were pretty sure it was a Ringed Plover. We nearly missed a male Sparrow Hawk that must have been sitting near us on a pile of logs, but we soon picked it up as it flew across the water to the feeding station opposite.

In one hide a couple of local birders mentioned sighting Bittern that week and that prior to the cold period at Christmas over two thousand Golden Plover had visited the reserve daily and with them a Peregrine - alas we didn't see either on this visit.

The last hide was a treat as it overlooked a well stocked feeding station. As we arrived three Mallard sat on the tables but they left as we sat down. The number of small birds feeding was incredible: mainly Blue/Great Tits but also Long Tailed Tit, Reed Bunting, Goldfinch and best of all at least eight Tree Sparrows. With no windows in the hide and the tables less than twenty feet away it was quite something to see and I wished that I'd had a camera.

Luckily Martin Ansley did have a camera!

On the walk back a fine male Bullfinch and a couple of Linnets added to a grand total of 43 species seen. Luckily the promised rain held off until we arrived home and all on the trip agreed Summer Leys is a fine reserve and being only fifty minutes from Aylesbury I see a return visit likely.

Bird Report – January 2011

As you will see below over 120 people have provided county records this January, which I am sure is a welcome record. Although it is not possible for all records to appear in this short report, or even in the larger annual report, all records entered on to the website, or sent directly to me, are included in the county database providing a long term picture of the county's bird population. In some years time people will look back with interest at this winter of the Waxwing in Buckinghamshire, with good numbers from Marlow in the south to Milton Keynes in the north.
